What is the difference between adapted lessons and NMT?

Neurologic Music Therapy focuses on medically necessary, non-musical goals and uses rhythm and music as a tool to reach those goals. Adapted lessons will be focused on LEARNING music and will have musical goals as the focus. Adapted lessons will be provided by a board-certified music therapist on staff that understands sensory and learning differences and can approach teaching with a variety of supports to help the student in learning the new instrument.
